FOSS ASKS GRAND JURY TO ACT ON BIG CORPORATIONS

Governor Foss to-day made formal demand upon District Attorney Pelletier that he prosecute Theodore Roosevelt, former President of the United States; Henry Cabot Lodge and W. Murray Crane, United States Senators. The Governor declares that these men and the officers of the Republican State Committee and the American Woolen Company, the United Shoe Machinery Company and the officers of the Aikwright Club, composed of all the leading Massachusetts mill agents, have violated the corrupt practices act.

This act, Governor Foss says in his letter, was passed to safeguard the right of candidates and of the voters in elections.

COMPLAINT FROM GEORGE W. ANDERSON.

District Attorney Pelletier had, during the morning, received a complaint from George W. Anderson, Democratic candidate for Attorney-General, that the corporations named had violated the law by inserting paid advertisements in newspapers, intended to affect the present State election, and Mr. Pelletier announced that he had begun an investigation and would lay the facts before the grand jury.

"Big Interest" Stirred.
No document in years has so stirred State and the "big interest" as Governor Foss's letter calling for a grand jury investigation of the political duties of these corporations. He submits letters from the Republican State Committee in which advertisements for financial support are asked from the "Boston Flower Company." He points out that this is an open violation of law and quotes the law regarding the soliciting and acceptance of contributions from corporations in an election.

Governor Foss, before he made his startling charge to-day, consulted none of the ablest lawyers of the State and he had their legal advice on the matter. There was intense excitement at the State House today when the Governor's letter was given out and got into the hands of the Legislature. They refused to comment on the letter.

Governor Foss calls for this investigation and protection not as Governor of the State, but as a citizen and a resident of the Commonwealth.

Declares Law is Violated.

Governor Foss in his letter to the District Attorney says that statutes which safeguard the rights of candidates and voters in an election are being flagrantly violated. He charges the contributions are being made by large corporations and that political advertisements are being published especially, he charges, in violation of the law.

The Governor's Letter.

"Joseph C. Pelletier, Esq.,
District Attorney of Suffolk County,
Dear Sir:
As a citizen of Massachusetts, a resident of this Commonwealth, and one of the candidates to be voted upon at the State election to be held November 12, 1911, I beg to bring to your attention the flagrant violation of the law which is being committed by the insertion of paid advertisements in newspapers, intended to affect the present State election, and I beg to request you to take prompt action to prevent such a violation in the future. I am, Sir, very respectfully,
Yours for the law,
George W. Foss, Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

SAVES DOCTOR'S BILLS.

Mr. Bellows' death was a sudden one.

Leaders in the Richeson Defence

Attorney John L. Lee, at left, chief counsel for the accused pastor, and Attorney Philip H. Dunbar, who has been acting for Richeson since his arrest. Photographs by Dunbar for the American.

Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson to-day resigned as pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church of Cambridge.

Information regarded as highly important to the interests of the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, indicted for the murder of Avis Linnell, to-day came to John L. Lee, the noted Virginia lawyer, who is in Boston to take charge of the defence of the accused clergyman.

This information has not been hinted at in connection with the tragedy that resulted in the young preacher's arrest. Mr. Lee would not disclose the nature of it. He admitted that he regarded it of vital importance to the interests of his client.

LAWYER LEE VISITS THE PRISONER.

Mr. Lee, who came into the carcer room at the solicitation of Thomas Varian Richeson, the clergyman's father, visited the prisoner to-day in his cell in the Charles Street Jail. After he had left the jail Mr. Lee said:

"I have had a long talk with Mr. Richeson and I am confident of his innocence and that he will be acquitted of the charge against him."

"As the trial proceeds the people of New England will learn facts about this case that have not come out as yet. These facts are not to be disclosed until the trial, however, is held."

"I have had a talk with Mr. Great Ed. and the father of Miss Violet Edwards, whom Mr. Richeson is engaged. Mr. Edwards believes in the innocence of the clergyman and will stick to him to the end."

Rebels that are expected to play a large part in the trial of Richeson were secured by the police. It was learned to-day, when they searched Richeson's room in Cambridge, that he was carrying a revolver.

It is reported that one of the articles found could have been used in connection with taking a medicine in the form of a powder.

Books on Medicine.

It was also reported that among the clergyman's books that had been seized by the police were books on medicine. The police have read the books carefully to see if they could find anything that could be made use of in connection with the prosecution of Richeson.

Certain facts of the defense it is understood have been discussed, but not definitely decided upon. The actual defense will depend upon the developments in the case.

Two lines of defense that have been considered are:

First, Richeson did not give Avis Linnell any medicine. The prosecution will be obliged to prove this.

"This is, of course, the crucial point in the case. If it is proved that he did give her any medicine, his friends point out, but the prosecution must prove that he gave her any medicine at all."

"We were hoping that our pastor would speak in his resignation. From what we have heard, he added any plan to assist in tonight's meeting."

Arguments of Defense.

The strongest facts upon which the defense build their hopes to-day are believed to be:

GEORGES

Now Boston's Largest Individual Clothing Store

AT LAST we open this new store after many delays and probably the most unfortunate series of circumstances that ever befell a store of this size and prominence.

And even now it is not over entirely. We fully expected to be in this new store two months ago. Then when delays occurred we banked on being able to stay at our old Summer Street store until this one was ready for occupancy. But even that was only a hope, as we were forced to occupy an out-of-the-way temporary location for the past month, at a sacrifice of more than half of our usual Fall business.

We are thus confronted by a peculiar condition. Here we are, just opening this great, beautiful new store, with a stock that is fully 50 per cent. too large. Anyone coming here, who chooses, can see that in spite of five great spacious floors our basement is stacked with garments for which we have no hanging room.

But we meet this issue fairly, squarely, as we have met all others. We have priced this entire great stock, embracing the newest ideas of the advance fashion, ranging from extreme English styles down to the most conservative of models, at many thousands of dollars less than its actual, intrinsic value.

Several months ago, when the notice to vacate our old Summer Street store came upon us, with racks full of stock, we offered the most immense clothes values Boston had ever known. We wish to say here to the thousands and thousands of wise Bostonians who bought then, that considering the time of the season, these values we are offering now in Fall and Winter Clothes are even greater. If you want clothes in a style a year ahead of ready-mades, at far less than ready-made prices, come here today.

Out of More Than 15,000 Garments We Mention Five as Representative

model, made in various shades of gray and black, in velours, and unlined worsted. Waist or skirted. Size to fit men of all proportions. The equal of any Twenty-Dollar Hildebrandt. Either straight back or heavy effect. Various lengths. $12.50

GEORGES CONSERVATIVE SUIT
model is designed on lines distinct from Ready-mades. Either broad or medium shoulder effect. It is built for the business man or athletic club that doesn't care for the English construction of clothes. These models are made in various shades of gray, blue and brown, in neat check, pinstripes and invisible overplaid effects. $15.00

GEORGES ENGLISH SUIT
model is renowned in all cities where we are located. The shoulders are narrow and sloping, lapel either peak or round corner effect. Long soft roll, slightly form-fitting, vent on high, the latest coloring—most in vogue with the pool dressers on Blue-Grays, Royal Purple and "Cherry Brown." See these specially priced. $16.50

GEORGES ENGLISH RAGLAN
model is made up in English white, genuine Irish housewrens, Scotch tweeds and fuzzy imported velours in every imaginable shade. It is so different from the ordinary frock built that they will make a hit with you at once. The collar is arranged to hug the neck, while the shirt has the extreme bell effect. You have trouble in duplicating them at double our marked price. $18.00

GEORGES GREAT COAT
model, an improvement over the old style flatter. The collar is convert-ible, it's a dress and storm coat combined. Waist grey suit to have the call, but we've made them up in various color effects, either belted or box back. This model was specially designed for us by one of New York's fashion creators, and we feel assured will meet the approval of Boston's best dressers. Quite an assortment at..... $20.00

TIME TO ANSWER COUP DE 'COOP' FOLEY QUESTION BY ASTOR CAR

Men and women from all over New England are sending in solutions to the Foley question.

The Foley question has become famous. It is a question which Miss Margaret Foley of Boston, the militant suffragist leader, proposed for Lieutenant-Governor Louis A. Frothingham. She has asked it and will submit it to Mr. Frothingham a few days before the state election. It may be said right off that the question is not the best question. "Do you believe in votes for women?"

The AMERICAN wants to ascertain how near the readers can come to guessing what the Foley question is. To stimulate guessing the AMERICAN will give $5 to the person whose guess comes nearest to the question. The next five nearest guesses will win $1 each.

Many solutions are coming in. Among those received today is the following which is rather personal to Mr. Frothingham:

Why Are You Single?
Why do you remain a bachelor while so many outgaze you?

P. L. Andrews of No. 100 Summer Street, is the author.

Corinna P. O'Brien of the State Farm has an idea that Miss Foley's question is a purely personal one. Here is his solution:

Why not get out the public the name of your intended bride and let her be a surprise?

James Hughes of No. 47 North Street, Boston, writes in the recent "Black" campaign in his answer:

If a Republican is elected Governor will that give members of that party the privilege of basing votes on Mr. Langley old man Foley?

Wendell Frothingham sign.

Mary L. Wyman of No. 33 Clapp place, Dorchester, sends in solution:

Will you, Mr. Frothingham, if elected, send a bill for women over 40 if passed by the House of Representatives?

The guess of James J. Kilpatrick, of the Boston Herald, is:

Will you, if elected Governor, recommend to the Legislature in your inaugural address that the matter of woman suffrage be submitted to the people at the next election?

AND YOU AN ANSWER?
If you and I see, you can get a laugh out of the answers. Send them to the AMERICAN, 100 Summer Street, Boston.

A Brief Story of GEORGES Growth in BOSTON

IT reads like a fairy tale. We first opened a store in Boston on April 9th, 1908, at 14 Summer Street. Boston men accepted and supported GEORGES Famous CUSTOM MODEL CLOTHES from the very start. It was only a scant two years when we found it necessary to annex the adjoining building at 16 Summer Street, until we came to do the greatest volume of clothing business in Boston. Now, we are entering upon another and the biggest step in our marvelous successful progress, opening the largest individual clothing store in Boston at 384 Washington St.

We might add that one of the great foundation stones in the structure of our success is our open and above-board window policy. We never have "dummies" in our windows. Our display garments are from our regular stock, and will gladly be taken out of the window for the asking.

With this Opening We Inaugurate a Youths' Dept. Embracing clothes especially designed for young men in those ages when they give more attention to clothes and appearance than seems necessary. Nobby, smart, snappy styles, fabrics and colors. Sizes range all the way from the entrance to the long trouser stage up to the Prep. School Athlete measuring 38 around the chest.

On Auto, Fur and Fur-Lined Coats We Can Positively Save You 50% We especially call your attention to one of our representative values, a natural Muskrat lined, full skins, with either Persian Lamb or Rat collar and choice of Venetian or Broadcloth shell—a coat that everywhere else is only duplicated at $75 or more. PLANE CRUISED FOR COLLAPSE

PREMIER SEEKS CHINESE PEACE

Part of the blame for the fatal collapse of the building at the corner of Hanover and Battery streets on October 29 is placed by the Premier Commission on the state of the building. The commission, reporting on its investigation, declared the building was killed, was seriously responsible. That the inspector, Edwin H. Colver, was not responsible and that the building department was responsible according to its findings. It is in that it has permitted a system which compels the inspector to make work that can be properly made without even a protest, might be removed, instead of disciplined, as recommended by the commission. The report said he would recommend the dismissal of Inspector Colver.

The commission's conclusions are:—The building was primarily responsible for the collapse of the building at Hanover and Battery streets on October 29, 1911.

—The owner was not responsible for a collapse.

—The building inspector failed to make effective inspection and is therefore primarily responsible, though he had a record of faithful service and the fact that he has given more work than he could do will not justify his resignation.

—The building department, as a whole, was not responsible for the collapse. The commission recommended that the inspector be removed from his position and that the building department be reorganized to prevent such a disaster as is permitted again in connection with the safe of structures without any having been made that with and approved by the building commission. Furthermore, the case of the department's inspection of the plan was perfunctory and useless.

Peeling the Face

(From Modern Housekeeper)

Women are beginning to realize how dangerous and how unnecessary is the painful and expensive surgical operation known as "face-peeling." Many clever society women have found their exquisite beauty accomplished the result themselves at home, with perfect safety and no pain, expense or attention indoors. They simply use ordinary mercurized wash, which can be obtained at almost any drug store, it is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning. The mercurized wash is slowly absorbed by the softened outer skin, causing it to flake off day by day in fine, almost imperceptible particles like flour. The fresh, vigorous young skin underneath soon shows forth, blooming radiantly with health and beauty. The face becomes a look years younger, though the use of the process absolutely defies detection by the closest observer.

Naturally this process also removes all skin rashes, facial blemishes, freckles, tan, moth patches, liver spots, wrinkles, pimples, etc.

Why Was It Slain?

What Do Senators Lodge and Crane Fear in the State Finance Commission?

Governor Foss recommended in his inaugural address to the Legislature the creation of a State Finance Commission, with powers and duties similar to those of the Boston Finance Commission.

The business propriety of such a commission was so apparent that it passed the House of Representatives without difficulty and had struck a winning pace in the Senate when orders came over from Washington to the Republican machine to kill it, and there, in that graveyard of reform, it was slain.

Why? Who feared such a commission? What possible objection to it could any honest man make? If it has proved good for Boston, would it not prove good for Lawrence? Are not the business principles upon which the proposition is based absolutely sound?

Would any well-regulated, huge, parent corporation, with nearly four hundred more or less important subsidiary corporations, fail to have such a unifying, standardizing, systematizing, investigating department as was suggested by the Governor under the title of a State Finance Commission?

There are nearly four hundred cities and towns in this Commonwealth. Most of the benefit of government to the citizen comes to him through the operation of his city and town government. Most of the tax which he pays directly or indirectly goes to his city or town, and there it is spent.

The citizen's most intimate concern, therefore, is his local government. If it is good, he reaps a higher profit than from even a good State government. If it is bad, it hurts him most of all.

But vital as his local government may be to the citizen, one of the most obvious methods of perfecting it has been overlooked for years. No local government will ever be the best possible so long as the citizens themselves do not know what perfection is possible in municipal and town methods. In human effort all things are comparative.

We cannot insist upon improvement unless we know it is possible, and we cannot know that it is possible unless we know that elsewhere others have achieved it. Neither can we adopt the best methods unless we know what are the best methods everywhere.

In all the cities and towns of the State there are nearly as many different practices and methods as there are cities and towns. They are not all the best practices or methods. Neither are all the best methods to be found within the Commonwealth. In the rest of the country, and in the more advanced countries of the world, they have been improving the methods of local government.

Was not Governor Foss right in attempting to establish a permanent body which should constantly give every city and town the benefit of the best that is found anywhere?

If the people of Lawrence had been told that the financial practices of their city government were not up to the standard elsewhere, and were told also in what respects they were bad, does anybody believe that the people of Lawrence would not have insisted that these practices be improved?

If a townspeople are told that it is costing more to build their streets than it ought to cost, and are told the reason why, does anybody believe that at the next town meeting there would not be some very pertinent inquiries made of the responsible officials?

If the people of a town or city are told that poor bookkeeping is preventing them from knowing what the cost of the different departments is to them, does anybody believe that such municipal bookkeeping would not be brought up to standard?

It is known that this wholesome, business-like and altogether unobjectionable proposition was slain in the Senate by the Republican machine upon the receipt of orders from Washington. No good reason has ever been given for killing the bill creating a State Finance Commission and no good reason can possibly exist. There are reasons why Senators Lodge and Crane do not want such a commission, but they are not good reasons.

The establishing of this commission is an important part of the constructive program which Governor Foss will undertake to carry out next year, Senators Lodge and Crane to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Governor's Council Once
Fought Russell as It Is Now
Fighting Foss—and the People Umpired

The spectacle of the Governor's Council blocking and opposing the policies and appointments of the Governor of the Commonwealth, simply because the Governor happens to be a Democrat, while, with one exception, the Council is Republican, is not new to the people of Massachusetts.

It first made its appearance, as a part of the game of politics—as politics is "played" in this State now—when William E. Russell, the Democrat, was Governor.

When the time came for Mr. Russell to appoint a bank commissioner, he sent to his council the name of Irving B. Sayles as his appointee for that important office.

No better man than Mr. Sayles could be found in all the State. That was why Russell selected him.

But Mr. Sayles was guilty of the crime of being a Democrat, and that was unpardonable in the eyes of the loyal Republican gentlemen who sat on the Governor's Council.

Week after week, Mr. Sayles was rejected and as often his name was sent back by the Governor. Finally, the thing became a scandal and decent Republicans by the thousands, ashamed and disgusted, marked their sense of such pique politics by voting for Governor Russell's re-election.

Governor Foss is to-day involved in a similar conflict. The people are watching the game with just as strong feelings of shame and disgust as filled them in the time of William E. Russell. And there is no small likelihood that some very ancient Massachusetts history may be found repeating itself at the State election.

The people of this Commonwealth admire big leaders and like to support broad, progressive policies. They have more than once proved they have no use for vendors of political poisons.

Who Killed Evelyn Crockett?

The Rockland, Maine, girl who married Allison MacFarland, and who was killed by a dose of POTASSIUM CYANIDE, SELF-ADMINISTERED, is thought by some to have been as much the victim of murder as was Aris Linnell of Hyannisport.

In each case there is supposed to have been "ANOTHER WOMAN." In the MacFarland case the "other woman" is admitted.

Were it not for the overshadowing importance given to the Linnell case by most of the newspapers, the killing of Evelyn Crockett MacFarland of Rockland would by this time have been one of the sensations of the time.

The BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN of November 5 will contain a resume of the MacFarland case, the latest news from Newark, N. J., and many pictures never before published. MAINE'S MYSTERY is no less interesting than that of Massachusetts.

Fall Nature Notes

THE song birds are with us again, though they are not so numerous as they were in the summer. They are now in the fall plumage, and are very beautiful. They are also very noisy, and are very much to be pitied. They are now in the fall plumage, and are very beautiful. They are also very noisy, and are very much to be pitied.

On With the New

By MILES OVERHOLT

DAME FASHION, ruler e'en of queens, old maids and women in their teens.

And fat and lean and tall and short, those in and out of love. Has said that women now must wear a dress that hugs them everywhere.

With accent on the "everywhere"—tight-fitting like a glove.

She says, to wear the dress aright, it's got to be so doggone tight. That woman may with greatest ease go through her husband's pores.

She says the best results are seen if it's put on with vegetable. Which, paired with buttons down the back, is only bad and worse.

The hobbie skirt is out of style, although it held 'em for a while; The tube is also in the run except in suburb-land.

The new that fits like Persian rugs, like walls that fancy paper hugs, Has sort of been declared the stuff that gets the hoo-hoo.

It's hard to think that women, this, with figures like a safety pin, Will undertake to do it, given that the fit is dum-dum moon.

But Fashion's issued her decrees, and so it's up to you and me. To stand near by and lend a hand, a shoe-horn or a spoon.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

FORNER PRESIDENT OF BOSTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SCORES "MAYDAY" STATEMENTS

It does not seem reasonable that the Republican party of Massachusetts should be responsible for the wild and reckless statements which are being made up, and then the State, by some Republican voting office, I write as a Republican; and I know this spectacle is humiliating to some of this party.

The Republican candidate for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, in this campaign, are making themselves conspicuous examples of the irrational, unreliable, unscrupulous stamp speaker. They not only make statements regarding the opposition party which are absolutely untrue, but many which are vulgarly personal to the candidate for Governor.

Further, they declare, if he should be elected, our mills will be closed, our industries ruined and our people driven into starvation.

Such a statement might be overheard as unworthy of notice if it were not deliberately uttered by men who are supposed to be intelligent and who are making the vote to elect them to the highest office in the State.

They go from town to town, and from factory to factory, and make statements to be open to them, declaring to the workers that if they elect the Republican ticket these mills will be closed and they (the workers) thrown out of employment.

"Vote the ticket we represent or you will starve." This is their slogan. It is incredible that intelligent men can make use of such ridiculous statements, often in order to elect themselves to office. Men who make such statements are either ignorant or dishonest. In either case they are unworthy of office.

"I have it to say whether through road or by sea, Massachusetts is willing to lose its mills and industries—for that is what you will say if Governor Foss is re-elected."

It is not true whether or not the mills will be closed and the workers thrown out of employment. The mills will be closed and the workers thrown out of employment if the Republican ticket is elected.

The mills will be closed and the workers thrown out of employment if the Republican ticket is elected. The mills will be closed and the workers thrown out of employment if the Republican ticket is elected.

The mills will be closed and the workers thrown out of employment if the Republican ticket is elected. The mills will be closed and the workers thrown out of employment if the Republican ticket is elected.
